Bird City Century II Development Foundation Seeks New Foundation Director

BIRD CITY, KANSAS, April 11, 2017 – Bird City is a town on the move — and the Bird City Century II Development Foundation has played an important role in the community’s growth. To date, the Foundation has partnered with the town’s leadership, organizations and neighbors to modernize the park and pool, build a community wellness center, establish the Cougar Cub Daycare, create a business incubator space, and they are continuing to evolve the place so many families call home.

With the current Foundation Director, Darci Schields, transitioning her full-time position to the Greater Northwest Kansas Community Foundation, the Century II Foundation is currently seeking a dynamic new leader who can help shape the future of Bird City. “What many people don’t know is we actually have two foundations functioning under one office right here in Bird City. Our office at 107 West Bressler houses both the Bird City Century II Development Foundation as well as the Greater Northwest Community Foundation,” Darci Schields shares.

Both foundations are actively working to build thriving communities in Northwest Kansas, and hiring a new Bird City Century II Foundation Director, will allow someone to focus specifically on the needs of the Bird City community to continue ongoing progress. Darci Schields adds, “If you’re someone who loves community development and has a passion to pursue Bird City community growth, we’d love to hear from you! This is a great opportunity and a truly rewarding position where we literally help to improve the community we live in.”

The new Foundation Director will report directly to the Bird City Century II Development Foundation Board of Directors and is responsible for:

- Shaping the future of Bird City
- Assisting with entrepreneurial initiatives
- Creating opportunities for our community members
- Promoting community and business development opportunities
- Partnering closely with the school, city and community organizations
- Overseeing the foundation’s properties and on-going projects

To apply, you can stop by the Bird City Century II Foundation office or find us online at www.birdcity.com.
